2011 CAAP Annual Report and Community Services Block Grant Summary
2011 has proven to be one of enormous challenges, and successes, for the Community Action Association of Pennsylvania (CAAP). We started out the year with our member agencies operating under a continuing resolution and uncertainty with our political place. CAAP worked with our state and national partners to positively position Community Action and keep our members up to date.

When President Obama mentioned Community Action for funding cuts during his State of the Union Address, the game got a lot messier. Through CAAP, the network mobilized to demonstrate our effectiveness to Congress and prove that the President's recommended 50% funding cut would hurt millions of people and devastate a system that puts people back to work.

Even as CAAP was focusing on the President's announcement, the ongoing budget battle and debt ceiling debate in Congress threatened to uproot Community Action. But our network is strong and committed. We do not give up in the face of adversity. With coordinated action, CAAP members communicated with their legislators, wrote to their newspapers and held press conferences. We made a loud noise and showed our elected officials that our agencies are individually unique in their local approach, yet we are collectively strong in our commitment to helping the working-poor and eliminating the causes of poverty.

We moved forward with our self-sufficiency programs, serving 673,762 individuals and 310,766 families in Pennsylvania. We continued our economic development programs, rebuilding local communities and adding to their economies. We saved homes through our foreclosure mitigation programs, retrained people so they could go back to work and gave children a start in life with early childhood education.

During these challenging conditions CAAP continued to provide first-rate member services and deliver successes.

A few of the highlights:
- The annual conference, Embracing Change, was one of the largest in the Association’s history. It introduced more than 300 attendees to top-rated educational offerings and endless networking opportunities.
- CAAP’s Family Development Credential (FDC) program trained over 300 individuals in 40 counties, enhancing competency of Children & Youth agencies.
- Thirty-four agencies took advantage of CAAP’s Family Economic Success mini-grants to promote financial literacy.
- CAAP’s Excellence In Reporting Committee ensured consistency in reporting National Performance Indicator outcomes.
- Countless hours of technical assistance were provided to the membership.

This report has been broken into two sections. The first part of the publication is the FY 2011 annual report of the Association. The second section of the publication is a summary report of Community Services Block Grant funds utilized in Pennsylvania for FY 2010. It provides the number and characteristics of clients served at individual member agencies.

It has been an honor to serve as your Association Board President for the past year. The dedication of staff, the expertise and commitment of the board of directors, and most importantly, the support of our member agencies continue to make CAAP a strong and vibrant Association. I am optimistic that our endeavors and hard work will pay off in 2012 and beyond.

Tay Waltenbaugh
CAAP Board President
CEO, Westmoreland Community Action

The Pennsylvania Community Action network analyzes community needs to identify strategies that will work best in addressing the systemic issues behind poverty. Each of the 43 agencies is unique in its approach to poverty because its programs and services reflect the needs of the agency’s local communities. Funding for CAAP member agencies comes from a variety of state, local and federal sources. The federal Community Services Block Grant (CSBG) provides core funding. In fiscal year 2011 Pennsylvania received $28,643,806 in CSBG funds. For every $1 in CSBG funds, Pennsylvania’s Community Action Agencies leverage an additional $22 in local, state and federal funding.

Community Action is also an important economic force in local communities and in Pennsylvania. Throughout the Commonwealth, the Community Action network is a major employer, providing careers to more than 4,000 individuals; placing Community Action among the top 30 employers in Pennsylvania.
The Community Action Association of Pennsylvania (CAAP) is a statewide membership organization representing all 43 Community Action Agencies in the Commonwealth.

CAAP acts as a statewide voice for local Community Action Agencies and low-income citizens. It is the primary source of advocacy, education, technical assistance, news, and networking for the Community Action network of Pennsylvania.

For over 40 years, CAAP has served the needs of its member agencies by helping to identify and sponsor professional training in anti-poverty areas, facilitating regular meetings of Community Action Agency leadership staff and board members, serving as the conduit for resource development, advocating for public policy conducive to the locally-developed goals of its membership, and promoting legislation and regulations that support economic opportunity efforts, community development and locally-designed strategies.

CAAP is a private non-profit corporation governed by a Board of Directors composed of representatives from member agencies. An Advisory Council consisting of representatives from public and private organizations, statewide interest groups and low-income individuals provides guidance and perspective related to the diverse needs of low-income persons.

Core funding for CAAP is provided through member agency dues. Program and training funds are provided in part by the Pennsylvania Department of Community and Economic Development, Pennsylvania Department of Public Welfare, Pennsylvania Department of Education, Pennsylvania Department of Corrections, U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, Federal Office of Community Services and the Corporation for National Community Service.

Story of Inspiration

Bucks County Opportunity Council

Lischa Argue

Lischa and her two children lived in a chaotic, unsafe home for several years. Eventually it became too dangerous to stay so she mustered the courage to take her children out of that environment and venture to provide for them on her own.

A Woman’s Place helped Lischa and her children move to a safe place and referred her to the Bucks County Opportunity Council in July 2007. With help from her Self-Sufficiency Coach, she built an action plan that would lead her to a brighter future.

The Opportunity Council granted her a self-sufficiency scholarship to help balance her budget while she worked to realize her goals. She consistently contributed co-payments while utilizing food banks and other community resources to help make ends meet.

Lischa had previously worked as a Certified Nursing Assistant and decided to further pursue a career in nursing; she enrolled in the Practical Nursing Program at Bucks County Community College. When her husband contacted her expressing a desire to reconcile, Lischa very cautiously agreed to meet with him. But he was unstable and the result was a series of tragic events. The circumstances left Lischa and her children in a state of emotional and financial ruin. With help and support from Family Focus, Network of Victim Assistance and the Opportunity Council, Lischa and her children slowly recovered.

Even when she was in foreclosure proceedings, Lischa was determined to hang on to her home in order to prevent her children from enduring further hardship. She worked closely with her Coach and a credit counselor to restructure her mortgage and retain possession of her home.

Frequent meetings with her Self-Sufficiency Coach enabled Lischa to problem solve, plan and budget confidently. Showing continued determination and strength, Lischa persevered and in July 2009, she proudly graduated from her Practical Nursing Program.

She passed the nursing certification exam in December 2009 and embarked on her new career. Her new position provides a stable salary, medical benefits for her family and personal fulfillment. Her income has increased by more than $60,000 since she enrolled in the program.

She is proud of the life she has created for her children. “It’s no secret, it’s been a tough road, a real struggle,” Lischa says, “but we’re doing better now. My Coach and the Opportunity Council have been a family support system for me.” Lischa embodies the extraordinary determination required to overcome adversity and barriers to self-sufficiency.

Lischa plans to work with other victims of domestic violence to show them there is a way out, a way to a peaceful life. She will also work to earn her Registered Nurse certification.
CAAP Member Services for 2011
CAAP facilitated the organization of member advocacy efforts around the Presidential and Congressional challenges to funding for the Community Service Block Grant (CSBG).

CAAP staff met with members of the Pennsylvania Congressional delegation to advocate for and protect funding for CSBG, Weatherization and the Low-Income Home Energy Assistance Program (LIHEAP).

CAAP worked with our national partners – National Community Action Foundation, Community Action Partnership, CAFLAW – to develop a uniformed approach to national CSBG funding advocacy.

CAAP held the 2011 annual training conference, Embracing Change, for over 300 attendees. The conference offered 35 training workshops in five educational tracks and five general sessions with internationally known speakers.

CAAP focused educational offerings on social enterprise and facilitating member agencies to expand their alternative revenue sources.

CAAP’s sponsorship of 36 AmeriCorps VISTAs provided an employment value of $1.3 million dollars to member agencies and increased capacity.

CAAP’s advocacy in Harrisburg maintained positive relationships with state legislatures and ensured their support for Community Action priorities.

CAAP meets regularly with the Department of Community and Economic Development (DCED) to discuss programs, opportunities, challenges and policy matters that impact upon CAAP members. These meetings maintain an open line of communication with DCED and provide opportunity for CAAP to impact regulatory and policy development.

CAAP met several times with the new Secretaries of DCED and Public Welfare (DPW), developing a positive relationship on behalf of the members.

CAAP acts as liaison between member agencies and DCED and DPW, passing along additional information and clarifications on directives, grants and other programming.

CAAP attended State Budget presentations regarding economic development and community development by the Team PA Foundation, to receive information on the Governor’s proposed budget.

CAAP provided 34 mini grants to member agencies through the Family Economic Success grant program, supporting the agencies’ efforts in promoting financial literacy, utilizing the Earned Income Tax Credit and Volunteer Income Tax Assistance and similar programs/incentives.

CAAP provided information on over 100 grant opportunities throughout the year.

The CAAP Board of Directors created an Excellence In Reporting Committee to ensure consistency in reporting National Performance Indicator outcomes.

CAAP staff worked closely with both the Work Group and the Committee in researching and compiling information into an organized and succinct report to serve as a guideline as members complete the COPOS reporting for the Commonwealth’s CSBG IS reports.

CAAP launched a new member-centric website to facilitate distribution of important federal, state and local information.

CAAP staff provided representation and advocacy on key statewide advisory groups including the Coalition on Low-Income Pennsylvanians, Weatherization Policy Council, Hunger Action Center, state planning committee for CSBG, County Commissioners Association of Pennsylvania Human Services Council, Pennsylvania Advisory Committee for Census 2010, Fatherhood Engagement Coalition, the Office of Community Service’s Regional Innovations and Performance Consortia, Community Action Partnership National T/TA Center, NASCSP National Clearinghouse, the state Permanency and Practice Initiative Oversight Team and the Pennsylvania Housing Finance Administration’s Housing Advisory Board.

CAAP launched, in conjunction with DCED, an online community assessment tool.

CAAP hosted eight regional member meetings, bringing together more than 200 member agency staff for information and best practice sharing.

CAAP initiated a finance personnel sub-group that met during the CAAP regional meetings.

CAAP maintains its leadership role among the nation’s state Community Action Associations.

CAAP provides free access to the legal and consulting services of CAPLA W, saving member agencies time and legal fees.
Story of Inspiration

The Community Action Program of Lancaster County - Barbie Dabbs

A divorced mother of two boys, Barbie Dabbs chose unemployment due to uncertainty of business ethics of the company through which she was employed. It turned out that she made the correct choice, as the company went out of business shortly thereafter.

“But between unemployment compensation and taking part-time jobs delivering pizza and waitressing, I managed to stay off of welfare,” Barbie remembers. However, unemployment compensation ran out and the winter months approached. She did not have enough income to afford rent, utilities, food, a car payment and other necessities for her family.

In December 2005, Barbie went to the Community Action Program (CAP) of Lancaster County’s outreach office in Elizabethtown, where she lived. She went to the office hoping to get food for a few months for her family. She not only received support from the local food bank, but the CAP staff helped her fill her oil tank so that she and her sons had heat for the winter. “We made that oil delivery last all winter and the boys and I were warm,” Barbie says.

In March 2006, Barbie accepted a position as a custodian with Manheim Township, but she continued to struggle financially. She kept her eyes open for a better opportunity for herself and her family.

In November 2008, she took a job with the Armstrong World Industries’ ceiling manufacturing plant in Marietta. At last, she had the income and the winter months approached. She did not have enough income to afford rent, utilities, food, a car payment and other necessities for her family.

Barbie joined the union that represents the employees at the plant. She had never been involved in a union previously, but she was interested in learning more about the organization. She became an active member of the union, and soon became a loaned labor representative with the United Way of Lancaster County.

As a loaned labor representative, she shares her story with donors in order to illustrate how they pay a critical role funding organizations such as the Community Action Program of Lancaster County through the United Way. In fact, she is a committed member of the Leadership Giving Society.

Barbie now saves for retirement and is working to repair her credit history. She and her family adopted a family in need last Christmas. She, her sons, her father and her grandparents pooled together to fill a full-size pick-up truck with presents and food for the entire family.

One day, Barbie would like to start a foundation to help others less fortunate than her. “I would like to travel the world to meet people and help them with their needs. I would return to write a book with their stories and put the proceeds from the book back into the foundation. Then I would go out and do the same thing all over again,” she explains.

Community and Economic Development
Community and economic development aims to increase the quality of living within a community. Pennsylvania’s Community Action Agencies are at the forefront of community betterment through programs that develop new and rehabilitate existing affordable housing, transform blighted neighborhoods, attract businesses to communities and provide support to low-income entrepreneurs.

In conjunction with initiatives such as Main Street and Elm Street, Community Action helps to revitalize residential and business districts. The programs increase property values, attract businesses and help to develop a higher sense of ownership and pride. This brings jobs, decreased crime rates and increases personal and civic assets. Pennsylvania’s Community Action agencies helped to preserve and improve housing in their communities, through their role as owner/managers of properties and their expertise in providing housing rehabilitation services.

Community Action is involved in community planning by bringing together local government, business and non-profit organizations to identify specific economic development needs. By leveraging financial resources, Community Action helps to maximize opportunities and results.

Through micro-enterprise, business incubator, small business development and other entrepreneur programs, Community Action provides resources to the creation and sustainability of new businesses.

Weatherization and Energy Assistance
The Weatherization Assistance Program enables low-income families to permanently reduce their energy bills by making their homes more energy efficient. Pennsylvania’s Community Action agencies assisted more than 29,000 homes in 2011. On average, weatherization reduces energy usage by 21%. The savings are repeated and magnified every year as more households are weatherized, making Pennsylvania’s low-income weatherization program one of the state’s single largest initiatives to save energy. Pennsylvania’s Community Action weatherization providers are major employers, creating 1,100 green jobs while making 35,000 homes safer and energy efficient.

Community Action agencies also provide a variety of energy assistance programs that help low-income families meet the costs of their electric, heating and cooling needs. In 2011, over 540,000 families received assistance with home heating costs through the Low-Income Home Energy Assistance Program (LIHEAP) managed by Community Action agencies and other community partners. Programs to assist with the rising costs of electric, oil, natural gas and other energy sources are offered by Community Action.

Childhood Education and Development
Community Action provides more than 200,000 children per year a variety of childhood education, development and support services. For over 40 years, Community Action Agencies along with other community-based partners operate the Commonwealth’s Head Start programs, which provide low-income children with early education, health and nutrition.

More than 50,000 low-income children enroll in Head Start each year and achieve higher literacy rates and improved health conditions. Research shows that for every $1 invested in Head Start, approximately $10 is saved in lifetime education, health, social service and other related costs.

Employment and Training
Getting low-income Pennsylvanians into higher wage, stable employment is a key component to self-sufficiency. Through the 38 Work Ready programs operated exclusively by Community Action, recipients of Temporary Assistance to Needy Families (TANF) benefits receive employment and training services.

By providing education and skills training, Community Action increases the employability of participants while helping to remove the barriers to employment through support services such as résumé writing and interviewing training. 48% percent of Work Ready participants obtained employment in fiscal year 2011 as a result of the program. 32% percent of these job placements offered medical benefits. On average, participants gained a 33% percent increase in their earnings over the state minimum wage.

Asset Development and Financial Literacy
Community Action is on the front lines of helping low-income families increase their personal and financial assets.

Through programs that encourage home ownership, financial literacy, budget counseling and Family Self-Sufficiency, low-income Pennsylvanians increase their financial status and quality of life. By connecting 900,000 low-income workers with the federal Earned Income Tax Credit through the free Volunteer Income Tax Assistance (VITA) sites, Community Action has helped place an additional $1.81 billion in the hands of the working poor.

Community Action is involved in assisting the unbanked and under-banked build their financial and credit acuity. Developing partnerships with financial institutions and credit unions, Community Action has helped to bring safe financial products to low-income neighborhoods while combating predatory lending practices.
Community Service Block Grant (CSBG) Summary FY 2010

Introduction
The Pennsylvania Department of Community and Economic Development’s (DCED) Office of Community Services (OCS) administers federal Community Services Block Grant (CSBG) funds to the network of Community Action Agencies (CAAs) and Limited Purpose Agencies (LPAs) in Pennsylvania. Funds are provided to OCS by the federal Department of Health and Human Services, Office of Community Services.

In accordance with the Community Services Block Grant Act, the funds are used for the reduction of poverty, the revitalization of low-income communities, and the empowerment of low-income families and individuals in rural and urban areas to become fully self-sufficient. This CSBG Summary, for fiscal year 2010, documents the types of services provided, the number and characteristics of clients served and stories of actual persons who benefited from the CSBG-funded programs. In addition, the report profiles individual CAAs throughout the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

The Pennsylvania network of CAAs and LPAs consists of 44 agencies located throughout the Commonwealth that provide services across the entire state. As eligible entities receiving CSBG funds, each agency is governed by a tripartite board of directors. In FY 2010 CAAs served clients who are at or below 150% of the Federal Poverty Guideline or below.

The tripartite board of directors consists of one-third elected local public officials, at least one-third duly elected representatives of the low-income community and the remainder must be members from the private sector/business community. The collaboration of community members is central to the CSBG program network and key to the success of the CAA effort. It is designed to tap the knowledge, experience and perspective of all community stakeholders.

As established under federal legislation (the Omnibus Reconciliation Act of 1981), at least 90% of the CSBG funds are designated for CAAs and LPAs. Funding from various federal, state, local and private sources serve to leverage the dollars offered by CSBG.

The overall goal of CSBG is to eliminate the causes of poverty, revitalize low-income communities and empower low-income families and individuals in rural and urban areas to become self-sufficient. To this end, the network of agencies provides an array of services, which include: case management (a system that helps a client achieve self-sufficiency through the provision of comprehensive services), health care, day care, nutrition programs, transportation, economic development, education, energy, drug and alcohol counseling, consumer services, housing services (referral, rentals, renovations, first-time home buyer programs, etc.), youth services, senior services, legal services, general information and referral services.

Integration and coordination of these services is a key component of what CAAs and LPAs do. This multifaceted approach provides a more comprehensive range of services and better outcomes.

Results Oriented Management and Accountability (ROMA)
Results Oriented Management and Accountability (ROMA) was created in 1994 by an ongoing task force of federal, state and local Community Action officials—the Monitoring and Assessment Task Force (MATF). Based upon principles contained in the Government Performance and Results Act of 1993, ROMA provides a framework for continuous growth and improvement among the local CAAs and a basis for State leadership and assistance toward those ends.

In 1998, the CSBG Reauthorization Act made ROMA implementation a requirement for receiving federal CSBG funds, and established October 1, 2001 as the starting date for reporting Community Action outcomes in the context of ROMA performance-based management principles. This statutory mandate has changed both the nature and pace of ROMA implementation throughout the CSBG Network.

Local CAAs have been encouraged to undertake a number of ROMA implementation actions that focus on results-oriented management and accountability.

Results Oriented Management
- Assess poverty needs and conditions within the community;
- Define a clear agency anti-poverty mission for Community Action and a strategy to address those needs, both immediate and longer term, in the context of existing resources and opportunities in the community;
- Identify specific improvements, or results, to be achieved among low-income people and the community; and
- Organize and implement programs, services and activities, such as advocacy, within the agency and among “partnering” organizations, to achieve anticipated results.

Results Oriented Accountability
- Develop and implement strategies to measure and record improvements in the condition of low-income people and the communities in which they live that result from Community Action intervention;
- Use information about outcomes to determine the overall effectiveness of the agency’s activities; and inform annual and long-range planning, and support agency advocacy, funding and community partnership activities.

State CSBG-led agencies and State Community Action Associations have been encouraged to work as a team to advance ROMA performance-based concepts among local agencies through on-going training and technical assistance. As the holders of the national contract to train ROMA-certified trainers, CAAP has been the leader among ROMA and National Peer-to-Peer (NPTP) programs.

National Performance Indicators
To enable greater aggregation and national reporting of universal and significant CSBG results among states and local agencies, 12 common categories, or indicators, of CAA performance have been identified from FYs 2001 to 2003 data. Additionally, four categories were added in FY 2009. Since 2004, these 16 National Performance Indicators (NPIs) have measured the impact of CSBG programs and activities on families and communities.

The NPIs cover the following outcome areas:
- 1.1 – Employment
- 1.2 – Employment Supports
- 1.3 – Economic Asset Enhancement and Utilization
- 2.1 – Community Improvement and Revitalization
- 2.2 – Community Quality of Life and Assets

6.3 – Child and Family Development

6.4 – Family Supports (Seniors, Disabled and Caregivers)

6.5 – Service Counts

Moreover, while establishing common definitions for reporting family, community and agency outcomes, the NPIs enable State and local CAAs to convey broad family and community outcomes. These outcomes are the result of the strategic use of a variety of change mechanisms, including service provision and program coordination, both within each agency and with partnering organizations in the broader community.

National Performance Outcomes

The outcomes in this report represent some of the most common activities of Pennsylvania’s CAAs as categorized among the 16 NPIs. The structure of the CSBG allows the agencies that receive funding the discretion to participate in a broad range of activities to meet the unique needs of their communities.

Each agency captured outcome data specific to its individualized goals and priorities. It should be noted that not all agencies participated in the activities that generated outcomes for every NPI, nor do these indicators represent all of the outcomes achieved by agencies.

In order to tell a complete story, five stories of inspiration have been included throughout this publication. They help to demonstrate the outcome achievements and successes from Pennsylvania’s Community Action Agencies. These narratives represent a cross section of the impact that is made every day in Pennsylvania’s communities through the innovative strategies of CAAs, with the support of CSBG funding.

Story of Inspiration

The Community Action, Inc.
Kurt Smith

When Kurt Smith suffered a job-related injury and his employer found him to be at fault, he was fired. Subsequently, he was denied unemployment compensation, so he sought assistance from the Jefferson County Assistance Office.

Kurt came to Community Action, Inc. in February 2010 and there he enrolled in the Comprehensive Employment Support Services Project. His case manager, Tonya Mauk, stated that Kurt consistently demonstrated resolve and conviction.

After enrolling, Kurt worked with agency staff to identify realistic, attainable goals he hoped to achieve in a short time period. His primary goal was to locate and obtain full-time employment; he realized this would not be easy in a weak economy.

Kurt said that he was not experiencing a recession, but a depression.

“A recession is when your neighbor is out of work,” he said. “A depression is when you’re out of work.”

He did not allow his problems or the current economy to deter him from pursuing his intended career path as a truck driver. With the assistance of his case manager and the support of his family, Kurt took the initiative to find a job.

Kurt’s case manager taught him how to seek employment, including how to prepare a résumé and cover letters, complete job applications and use the CareerLink’s CWDS system to find available jobs.

Community Action, Inc., with the help of the Jefferson County Assistance Office and Goodwill Industries, assisted Kurt in obtaining a hard hat and steel toe footwear.

His initiative and persistence paid off in April 2010, when he was hired as a full-time truck driver. He began driving but continued to look for more appealing employment opportunities, and the next month, he switched positions, becoming a frac-tank truck operator with a different company.

At his new job, he earns a living wage as well as benefits such as health insurance.

Kurt is highly confident there are no obstacles he cannot overcome, especially now that he possesses the job-seeking knowledge, skills and abilities he obtained through Community Action Inc.

Kurt thanks Community Action, Inc. and specifically Tonya Mauk for helping him to become economically independent and improve quality of life for his family.

Story of Inspiration

Westmoreland Community Action - Edward Miller

Edward Miller was unemployed when he first came to Westmoreland Community Action in 1993. As he puts it, “I was broke and living with my mother.” He had heard of the training opportunities that were available to those that receive transitionally needy benefits through the Department of Public Welfare (DPW), and he hoped to take advantage of these programs in order to take steps toward becoming not only employed, but self-sufficient.

At that time, Westmoreland Community Action was a contractor for DPW, providing an employment training program called the Individualized Intensive program for Independence (known as the I. I. I. program). The I. I. I. Program included a Job Search Workshop. Ed and other workshop participants learned resume and cover letter writing skills, interviewing techniques and educational exploration.

Ed also enrolled in Residential and Commercial Electricity training at a school in Uniontown, PA. During this 12-month program, he received supportive services from the I. I. I. Program, such as intensive case management, financial assistance and job placement. Westmoreland Community Action staff helped Ed to work toward and achieve his goals with confidence.

After graduating from the electricity training in 1994, Ed found a job with a local electrical contractor. He has health insurance for himself and his son through the business. His future plans are to continue to gradually grow his business.

Ed now lives in Greensburg, PA with his 14-year-old son, Dakota. He runs a successful business and has three employees. He has health insurance for himself and his son through the business. His future plans are to continue to gradually grow his business.

He has an impeccable reputation as a dependable electrician and performs residential electrical work for several employees of Westmoreland Community Action.

Free of all welfare subsidies and no longer receiving Section 8 subsidized housing, Ed enjoys life as a self-sufficient individual. He attributes his success in business and his ability to independently care for his son through the business. His future plans are to continue to gradually grow his business.

Conclusion

In Pennsylvania, the Community Services Block Grant (CSBG) fund helped serve 673,762 individuals and 310,766 families in need during FY 2010.

Due to the deep recession that started in 2007 and has only deepened through 2010, Community Action Agencies in Pennsylvania had a heightened sense of responsibility to help their communities get back on their feet by providing critical services and support, such as job training, GED courses, child care, transportation, safe and affordable housing, tax preparation services, services to seniors and the disabled, asset enhancement and development, emergency assistance, and many other services to help individuals and families achieve economic security.

Together, these 44 Community Action Agencies have helped 7,419 individuals obtain a job — the most direct approach to gaining self-sufficiency. In addition, 19,021 barriers to initial or continuous employment were reduced or eliminated, through an increase in employment skills, before- and after-school programs for children, completion of GED programs, post-secondary education, child care and transportation. A total of 52,372 infants and children were assisted in health and physical development, and 8,858 parents and other adults learned and exhibited improved parenting skills.

But providing critical services to individuals and families was not the only focus of Pennsylvania’s CAAs in 2010. Community Action Agencies worked to improve their communities by creating jobs, bringing businesses to neighborhoods, creating safe and affordable housing units, mobilizing volunteers, and mobilizing low-income individuals to be involved and to own a stake in their communities. For example, 1,175,039 volunteer hours were donated to CAAs across the state in FY 2010. Over 2,000 living wage jobs were created, or saved, from reduction or elimination in the community, and 2,080 safe and affordable housing units were created or improved in communities, and 1,178 low-income individuals participated in formal community organizations, government, boards or councils that provide input to decision making and policy setting through community action efforts.

Pennsylvania’s CAAs worked together with 6,183 partners across the state, 790 of which were faith-based organizations. Forming partnerships ensures that CAAs are not duplicating services in communities, but are improving people’s lives in the most efficient and effective ways possible.

Pennsylvania’s Community Action Agencies are poverty-fighting leaders in their communities who are experts in their local needs and are united by the six national goals of CSBG. They will continue to provide services to individuals and families, to improve and mobilize their communities, and to constantly re-evaluate themselves in order to serve and improve their communities.
The overall goal of CSBG is to eliminate the causes of poverty, revitalize low-income communities and empower low-income families and individuals in rural and urban areas to become self-sufficient.
